

VACANCY

European Sales Executives (Field-based in Germany or the Netherlands)

Do you enjoy the buzz of working in a sales environment? Are you passionate about health and nutrition? If so, this may be the role for you!

Due to extensive sales growth in Europe we have a new and exciting opportunity for Sales Executives to be based in both Germany and Benelux. These are key roles within our European Sales team, responsible for developing sales in your designated area and so you must be fluent in both the language of your designated area and English.

This is an autonomous role therefore self-motivation and exceptional time management is crucial. Proven sales development experience is essential and a background working in the sport nutrition, health and wellbeing, pet nutrition or food and beverage industries with knowledge of ingredients and supplements is advantageous.

The role will involve frequent travel across your designated area as well as travelling to the UK Head Office once every six weeks to meet with the European Sales team based in the UK.

This is a permanent position working Monday to Friday.

Would you like to join a business that has recently achieved accreditations for Best Companies and Best Employers of the Eastern Region awards through its commitment to creating a great place to work, where employees are valued and invested in? If you feel this may be the role for you, please apply by completing a job application form and sending this with a copy of your CV to: vacancies@c-c-l.com.
